German Chamber of Commerce honors Recaro as qualified training company

At their headquarters in the Upper Franconian Marktleugast, Recaro Child Safety has been training junior industrial managers, specialists in systems integration, industrial mechanics and technical product designers for ten years and by that giving young people the opportunity to actively work on their professional future. The company's commitment to targeted training of qualified specialists has now been honored by the German Chamber of Commerce (IHK) of Upper Franconia Bayreuth and Recaro was presented with the certificate "Training Company 2015". Having started with only one trainee ten years ago, today the trainee team of the child seat manufacturer consists of eleven young, motivated and talented individuals.

"The award confirms that we are well on our way to actively counter the shortage of skilled workers especially in the region of Upper Franconia. It also motivates us to further optimize the training contents, provide exciting and practical projects and it may also make additional training professions possible in the future," says Human Resources Manager Anja Seifferth.

One of these mentioned projects is the factory sale, which was launched by the trainees in the fall of 2014. Due to the great success, the event will take place again on May 9th, 2015 from 10:00 am till 1:00 pm, on the premises in Marktleugast.

Applications for an apprenticeship at RECARO Child Safety are always welcome and can be submitted via jobs@recaro-cs.com.
